

Emeth Reads

Presents

A Shabbat Service & Kiddush

with Amy Hoffman

& honoring the Sisterhood Book Club

Saturday, April 29, 2017 at 9:30 am

The goal of the program Emeth Reads is to engage the Emeth community in reading and discussing interesting and relevant literature together. Lies About My Family is available for purchase on Amazon.com and at other fine bookstores. Please read Amy's book and join us for services and an enhanced Kiddush. There is no charge for this program, but please register at www.templeemeth.org by April 25, 2017.

Amy Hoffman is the editor-in-chief of the Women's Review of Books (WRB), which is published by the Wellesley Centers for Women (WCW) at Wellesley College,. She is a member of the creative nonfiction faculty at Pine Manor College's MFA program. A writer and community activist, Hoffman is the author of three memoirs -- Lies about My Family; An Army of Ex-Lovers: My Life

"I began writing LIES ABOUT MY FAMILY because I was wondering about the stories that families tell—the stereotyped ones that are told over and over. Why those stories? What's underneath them? What's missing? LIES ABOUT MY FAMILY examines what I discovered about my history and my relationship to it all—my Jewish heritage, my lesbian identity,
