Sunday, December 16, 2018, at 4:00 pm in Temple Emeth.

Kolehnu presents a concert to comfort and strengthen the spirit with music old and new. Cantor Michael McCloskey of Temple Emeth and Cantor Becky Khitrik join Kolehnu in selections by Max Janowski, Nurit Hirsh's Neshama (Comfort) and more, including music set to the poetry of Yehuda Halevi and to Yiddish tales of Jewish refugees and immigration.

Kolehnu, Boston's Jewish Community Chorus, brings the joy of Jewish music and culture to the greater Boston area and beyond. The 80-member chorus performs a wide range of sacred, secular, traditional, and contemporary Jewish choral works in concerts and community collaborations, and has appeared at the North American Jewish Choral Festival, the Boston Jewish Music Festival, and the Greater Boston Community Chorus Festival.
